

READ AND REFLECT.

NOTICE TO OUR PATRONS—If the individual members of an audience would stop to think for just an instant, they would undoubtedly appreciate the fact that the habit of rising from one's seat and leaving the theatre before the curtain falls, is a most annoying one, and one that should be stopped. We therefore beg our audiences to kindly remain in their seats until the close of the performance.

Evenings—doors open at 7:30; curtain rises at 8:15 sharp. Matinees—doors open at 1:30; curtain rises at 2:30 sharp.

The plan of the House will be kept at the confectionery parlors of Mr. Hewitt Fysh, King and Richmond Streets, corner of the Opera House building, where all seats may be reserved up till seven o'clock on the evening of performance.

Plan opens for each attraction two days in advance.
Seats can be secured by mail, telegraph or telephone. Telephone 732.
Physicians are requested to register at the Box Office, leaving seat number, as this will enable Ushers to find them if called for, without disturbing the audience.
Carriages can be ordered at the Box Office or of the Chief Usher.
Please report to the management any inattention on the part of the employees.
Overcoats, packages and umbrellas checked for a small charge.
For all lost articles apply at Box Office.

Between the Acts.

Be good—and you will be a curiosity.
A word in mind is worth two in the dictionary.
The silver question—"Can you lend me a quarter?"
The line that tailors hang clothes on—Masculine.
Edmund Yates, the distinguished London journalist, who thought going to jail was a joke, has come to realize that it is a yoke.
Dan Manning eats one meal early in the morning and another at night. He was once an editor, but lately has taken to eating an extra meal.
"Reading maketh a man full," says Bacon, but a man who gives to a judge that exorse for his unsteady condition will receive a sentence not found in any of Bacon's philosophy.
Young ladies at a certain Western college are taught how to make bread. When they graduate they are known as college-bread women, and are in great demand with housekeepers.
"Do you know," said a sly youth to his sweetheart, "do you know that Englishmen believe that American girls do not know what to do with their arms?" "Oh, don't they, eh?" she said. "Well I'll show you." And, suiting the action to the word, made him think he was in a cider press.
A news item gives an account of a young man attempting to commit suicide with a corkscrew. No doubt he found the bottle before he got hold of the corkscrew. A great many men succeed in committing suicide with a corkscrew, by the way, but in some cases years elapse before death results.
"What makes you think you saw your husband's ghost last night?" "He came into my room and I called on him to stop, but he passed on as if he didn't hear me." "Perhaps it was really your husband." "No, I am sure it wasn't. John, poor John, would not have dared to go on without stopping."
"You look dreadfully tired," said the sleigh to the wheel. "That's because I go round with the fellows, I surmise," said the wheel. "I get awfully slewed myself, some time," remarked the sleigh. "I am always pretty full when I go to a funeral, said the carriage, sticking out its tongue. Then the wheel spoke again and said: "Stop the hub-bub! Here is a couple of awful cross roads ahead."

Jarbeau dresses "Starlight" as if it were a rainbow. She appears in many different costumes, every one of which is, to the beholder, most becoming until she assumes another. Among her many costumes the following are a few: The first is an Italian peasant dress composed of red China silk skirt, trimmed with vari-colored ribbon; a chemisette of blue China silk with a yellow silk bodice confining it to the figure. The next is an evening dress of heavy yellow Ottoman silk, trimmed elaborately with very wide duchesse and Rouen point lace, the duchesse flounces being festooned with tiny yellow roses. With this costume Miss Jarbeau carries a large yellow ostrich pearl-handled fan. The bodice of this dress is studded with thousands of dollars worth of diamonds. The third dress is a white school-girl costume of white cashmere and white pinafore and sun-bonnet. The fourth is an embroidered gown of white crepe heavily embroidered in silk, having around the waist a long snake-green sash. A large hat trimmed with quantities of ostrich plumes and a fan to match, complete this costume. The fifth is a street dress of black silk embroidered with old rose flowers. It has a demi-train and has an old rose ruching of silk around the bottom. The side pieces of the waist are of old rose and the sleeves are very large. A jaunty hat of black lace trimmed with crush roses helps to made up this very fetching little costume. The sixth is a burlesque costume, Miss Jarbeau being in gray and white from head to foot. The bodice is of grey and white wide striped silk, heavily embossed with real silver threads. There is very wide fringe at the bottom of the waist and trunks composed of steel and silver. A long crepe cape hangs gracefully at the back, caught with steel and silver ornaments, a high Medici collar, a hat trimmed with gray and white plumes, a pair of grey silk tights and slippers to match, make a tout ensemble rarely to be surpassed. The last dress is Miss Jarbeau's favorite; it is a Spanish dress, composed of an underskirt of scarlet crepe with flounces upon flounces of scarlet chiffon from the hem to the waistband. The top skirt is of green crepe faced up with scarlet chiffon. The Spanish jacket is of green velvet covered with beautiful iridescent trimming; from beneath this falls scarlet crepe caught with a girdle of iridescent passementerie. Two bright scarlet roses in the hair make Miss Jarbeau in this costume a perfect Spanish type. Jarbeau is the queen of the realm in "Starlight."—New York Tribune.
